It takes a screen capture. Therefor, the image dimensions will be whatever resolution your devices display is. The application here is for photos you will only view on your phone or email to friends at low quality, not for archiving. The new photo may lose quality, depending on they quality of the original photo and how much you crop, but the new photo is saved as a copy so the original remains untouched. copy dvd mac -BeeJive for all my IM services except skype. -Skype for mobile to desktop Video chat. -Before I switched to unlimited texting I used TextFree with Voice. < One of the best apps in the app store IMO -Heytell for when I'm driving or do not feel like typ
